Steps to Becoming a Registered Dietitian (RD)

(From the Academy of Nutrition and Dietetics: https://www.eatrightpro.org/career/become-a-registered-dietitian-nutritionist/how-to-become-a-registered-dietitian)

1. Complete the knowledge requirements of an ACEND-accredited education program (the Didactic Program in Dietetics).
2. Get matched to an ACEND-accredited dietetic internship program (also called a supervised practice program) where you will complete supervised practice hours. For example, you may complete the Individual Supervised Practice Pathway as part of your graduate program.
3. Pass the Commission on Dietetic Registration registration exam.
4. Gain licensure in your state (if applicable).
5. Maintain continuing education.

Registered Dietitian (RD) vs Registered Dietitian Nutritionist (RDN)

(From the Commission on Dietetic Registration: https://www.cdrnet.org/rdvsrdn)

What is the new optional RDN credential?

The Academy of Nutrition and Dietetics' Board of Directors and the Commission on Dietetic Registration have approved the Registered Dietitian Nutritionist (RDN) credential as an optional credential for Registered Dietitians (RD).

Will the new optional RDN credential have an effect on state licensure of RDs?

No. Legislation and regulation governing the RDN credential will be sought only at the discretion of individual members and affiliates. Many states have licensure laws that govern the use of the RD credential and variations of it (e.g., LDN or CDN).
